DR. REGINALD SATYA PRAKASH PRASAD
came from Fiji Island for Macular Degeneration Treatment

What is the mode of operation of stem cell treatment for age-related macular degeneration?

Prior to the discovery of stem cells, the only treatment option for AMD was a surgical operation. Stem cell technology has changed the procedure, rendering it the only non-surgical method for undoing the damage and stopping AMD progression.

Stem cells are naive cells in the body that have the ability to differentiate into any cell in multiple organs. Medical research has used stem cells' ability to cure a number of degenerative diseases, including but not limited to AMD. Global research has shown that stem cells are promising candidates for the easy replacement of degenerated or damaged RPE layers with fresh cells, which is believed to discourage or reverse vision loss.

“ Shweta

29 years, Amritsar, 2020

Hi, I am Shweta from Amritsar. I had Age-related macular degeneration, and then my cousin suggested this stem cell treatment, and to be honest, it helped me a lot. So if you are looking for something affordable and effective, I highly recommend this treatment, and the best part is that it has no side effects to worry about. We reached the hospital in a few days because of the support they are offering. Their staff picked me up from the airport, and the doctors were well educated.
